Curious to learn how to create novel and innovative financing strategies to address social determinants of health? Please join us for a special conversation with Doug Jutte and David Erickson, who will share innovative approaches in community development that will produce better health outcomes and decrease poverty, discrimination, and neighborhood drivers of poor health. The session will answer questions, such as:

- How can novel strategies and funding from other sectors be used to advance the nation’s health?
- What payment models and outcome measures would facilitate transformation?

This presentation is a special expanded session of HPM 249–3 seminar: Transformation of Health Care Systems.
