June 10th, 12-1PM

"Voicing Politics: How Language Shapes Public Attitudes Toward Gender Relations and Gender Inequality"
Efren O. Perez, Ph.D.
Professor, UCLA Political Science and Psychology

RSVP Here for Dr. Perez's seminar

Efrén Pérez is Full Professor of Political Science and Psychology. His scholarship centers on political psychology, with specific interests in racial and ethnic politics, language and political thinking, implicit political cognition, and the measurement of political concepts. He has published numerous articles in leading political science and general science journals, including Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, American Journal of Political Science, Journal of Politics, Political Behavior, and Political Psychology. He is also the author of an award-winning book titled, Unspoken Politics: Implicit Attitudes and Political Thinking (Cambridge University Press). His second book, Diversity’s Child: People of Color and the Politics of Identity (Chicago University Press), is due out later this year. In addition to his research, Efrén directs the Race, Ethnicity, Politics, and Society (REPS) Lab at UCLA.